8 Freedom of Information Act 1992 (FOI Act)

The Freedom of Information Act 1992 (The FOI Act) provides a general right of access to documents held by the Town. It also enables the public to ensure that personal information held by the Town is accurate, complete and up to date.

The Town's aim is to be an open and friendly Council, promoting public participation in all decision making. The Town endeavours to seek ways certain documents concerning government operations can be made available to the public. Where appropriate and possible, documents may be provided outside of the Freedom of Information process.

8.1 Overview

The FOI Act enables people to participate more effectively in governing the State and to make state and local government more accountable to the public. This section is provided to give a brief understanding of its processes and is not all encompassing. Further details can be obtained from the Office of the Freedom of Information Commissioner.

8.2 Objects and Intent

The objects of the FOI Act are achieved in three ways:

1. by creating a general right of access to state and local government documents;
2. by providing means to ensure that personal information held by state and local governments is accurate, complete, up to date and not misleading; and
3. by requiring that certain documents concerning state and local government operations be made available to the public (information statements and internal manuals).

8.3 Principles of Administration

The Town of Victoria Park will administer the FOI Act in a way that:

1. assists people to obtain access to documents;
2. allows access to documents to be obtained promptly and at the lowest reasonable cost; and
3. assists people to ensure that personal information contained in documents is accurate, complete, up to date and not misleading.

8.4 Right of Access

A person has a right of access (subject to the FOI Act) to documents and that right is not to be affected by any reasons the person gives, or the Town's beliefs as to what the person's reasons are, for requiring access.

8.5 Application of the FOI Act

There are only a few State Government departments and authorities to which the FOI Act does not apply. It does not apply to Parliament or any other body listed in Schedule 2 of the FOI Act. It applies to courts only in respect of their administrative functions. It applies to all other agencies.

The FOI Act applies to documents in the possession of a Minister provided they relate to the affairs of an agency. Documents relating to party matters or to a Minister in his or her capacity as a Member of Parliament are not subject to the provisions of the FOI Act.

The FOI Act applies to all documents and records in the possession of an agency, whether written or electronically stored. The term record includes, but is not limited to, maps, plans, diagrams, graphs, drawings, photographs, films, videos, sound recordings and encoded information.

8.6 Consultation with Third Parties

The FOI Act recognises the need to balance access to information in the possession of government agencies against the need to protect both personal privacy and sensitive information relating to business or commercial affairs. Where an applicant requests access to a document which contains personal or business/commercial information relating to another person, the Town may not give access to the document unless it has taken steps to consult with the third party as to whether the document is exempt. The third party affected will offer views as to whether the document should be released. However, the decision lies with the agency. The decision maker must take into account the third party's views but is not bound by them. The third party can seek a review of the decision to give access.

8.7 Exemptions

Exemptions are based on what is essential to maintain the system of government and what is necessary for the protection of essential public interests and of private and business affairs of persons and organisations. The FOI Act makes provision for documents falling within the following categories to be protected from disclosure in certain circumstances:

- Cabinet and Executive Council;
- inter-governmental relations;
- personal information;
- commercial or business information;
- law enforcement, public safety and property security;
- deliberative processes;
- legal professional privilege;
- confidential communications;
- the State's economy;
- the State's financial or property affairs;
- effective operation of agencies;
- contempt of parliament or court;
- information as to adoption or artificial conception;
- information protected by certain secrecy provisions; and
- information as to precious metal transactions.

Exemptions will only be claimed where the relevant information is genuinely sensitive. Even if a document is technically exempt, access to it will not be refused automatically. This approach is consistent with the intent and spirit of the FOI Act.

9 Freedom of Information Application Procedure

9.1 How the Application is Made

It is the aim of the Town of Victoria Park to make information available promptly and at the least possible cost. Whenever possible, documents will be provided outside the FOI process.

If information is not routinely available, the FOI Act provides the right to apply for documents held by the Town and to enable the public to ensure that personal information in documents is accurate, complete, up-to-date and not misleading.

9.2 Freedom of Information Applications

- be in writing;
